- [00:30] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: I continue to struggle with pronouns "i", "me", and "myself"
- [00:50] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: Good compare and contrast here.
- [01:35] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: As a class we all relied on the sign "mean" a lot and it came out in this segment of my second philosophy. Need to remember there are other Discourse Markers available
- [02:07] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: My role shifting/changes in positioning here are good to show that I am using compare and contrast techniques
- [02:54] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: I think my NMS is pretty good here. It is fitting the affect I want
- [03:08] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: This phrasing for the next 20 seconds is a lot more English-y than I would want
- [03:37] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: Pattern of using the sign "really" too often
- [04:39] Chris Chiarelli: ANALYSIS: Another missed pronoun.
- [End] Chris Chiarelli: Overall I was happy with this ASL sample. I think I used an appropriate register, my space was clear and large enough to fit the register. My NMS was clear and fit the message. All in all, I am satisfied with this as a sample of my ASL abilities.
